Enter Berowne.

Ber. O my good knaue Coſtard, exceedingly well met.

Clow. Pray you ſir, How much carnation Ribbon may a man buy for a remuneration?

Ber. What is a remuneration?

Coſt. Marrie ſir, halfe pennie farthing.

Ber. O, why then three farthings worth of Silke.

Caſt. I thanke your worſhip, God be wy you.

Ber. O ſtay ſlaue, I muſt imploy thee;
As thou wilt my fauour, good my knaue,
Doe one thing for me that I ſhall intreate.

Clow. When would you haue it done ſir?

Ber. O this after-noone.

Clo. Well, I will doe it ſir: Fare you well.

Ber. O thou knoweſt not what it is.

Clow. I ſhall know ſir, when I haue done it.

Ber. Why villaine thou muſt know firſt.

Clo. I will come to your worſhip to morrow morning.

Ber. It muſt be done this after-noone:
Harke ſlaue, it is but this;
The Princes comes to hunt heere in the Parke,
And in her traine there is a gentle Ladie:
When tongues ſpeak ſweetly then they name her name,
And Roſaline they call her, aske for her:
And to her whyte hand ſee thou doe commend
This ſeal'd-vp counſaile, There's thy guerdon: goe.

Clow. Gardon, O ſweet gardon, better then remuneration, a leuenpence-farthing better: moſt ſweet gardon. I will doe it ſir in print: gardon, remuneration. Exit.

Ber. O, and I forſooth in loue,
I that haue beene loues whip?
A verie Beadle to a humorous ſigh: A Criticke,
Nay, a night-watch Conſtable.
A domineering pedant ore the Boy,
Then whom no mortall ſo magnificent.
This wimpled, whyning, purblinde waward Boy,
This ſignior Iunios gyant dwarfe Don Cupid,
Regent of Loue-rimes, Lord of folded armes,
Th'annointed ſoueraigne of ſighes and groanes;

Liedge of all loyterers and malec
Dread Prince of Placcats, King o
Sole Emperator and great genera
Of trotting Parritors (O my little
And I to be a Corporall of his fie
And weare his Colours like a Tu
What? I loue, I ſue, I ſeeke a wi
A woman that is like a Germaine
Still a repairing: euer out of fram
And neuer going a right, being a
But being watcht, that it may ſtill
Nay, to be periurde, which is wo
And among three, to loue the wor
A whitly wanton, with a veluet br
With two pitch bals ſtucke in her
I, and by heauen one that will do
Though Argus were her Eunuch
And I to ſigh for her, to watch for
To pray for her, go to: it is a plag
That Cupid will impoſe for my ne
Of his almighty dreadfull little m
Well, I will loue, write, ſigh, pray,
Some men muſt loue my Lady, an

Actus Qua

Enter the Princeſſe, a Forr
Lord

Qu. Was that the King that ſp
Againſt the ſteepe vpriſing of the
Boy. I know not, but I thinke i
Qu. Who ere a was, a ſhew'd a
Well Lords to day we ſhall haue o
On Saturday we will returne to Fr
Then Forreſter my friend, Where
That we muſt ſtand and play the m

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Love's Labour's Lost (STC 22295) LONDON, 1631 UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH (JA 37